Matthew Gibson, MD  | Faculty Physician
Matthew Gibson grew up in Sacramento. His academic path went from Cosumnes/American River Colleges with a transfer to UC Davis (B.S. in Neurobiology), then to The Ohio State University (M.D.), and back to UC Davis (residency in combined Family Medicine/Psychiatry). He is currently completing an advanced training program in psychoanalytic psychotherapy through the San Francisco Center for Psychoanalysis.

In July 2017, Dr. Gibson joined the faculty of the Dignity Health Methodist Family Medicine Residency, where he uses his dual training to teach family medicine with an emphasis on mental health. He believes that healthcare should be widely accessible as well as comprehensive. He values a team approach, tailored to the individual needs and goals of each patient. His philosophy in both teaching and patient care is to support each person in living their best life. He is living his own best life alongside his wife and their four children. (He, Him, His)
